

Dear Dr Tilahun,

I hope this email finds you well.

I am writing to express my sincere gratitude for your invaluable guidance and support throughout my Master's degree program. Your insightful feedback, encouragement, and expertise played a significant role in shaping my research and helping me successfully complete my thesis.

My experience working under your supervision has further solidified my passion for international business and my desire to pursue further research in this field. Since completing my Master's, I have been actively exploring PhD programs and believe that continuing my research journey under your guidance would be an incredible opportunity.

I am particularly interested in Navigating business during Geopolitical Uncertainty and how Yemeni firms can mitigate these challenges. My proposed research title is (Enhancing Yemeni Business Resilience in Times of Geopolitical Uncertainty. Strategies for managing Risks and Uncertainty. A Case Study- Yemeni Enterprises). I would be grateful for the chance to discuss a potential PhD project in this area and your availability to supervise such a project.

Please let me know if you are available to discuss my PhD aspirations in more detail. I have attached my updated CV and Master's degree certificate for your reference.

Thank you again for your exceptional supervision during my Master's program.

Sincerely,

Yahya
